

Antibiotics aren't always the best treatment for your pet

Your pet will only be prescribed antibiotics when they are truly needed.

They do not work for every condition, and using them when they are not necessary can do more harm than good.

