

Right treatment, right time

Antibiotics aren't always the right treatment for your pet. Sometimes rest, pain relief or other treatments are the better choice.

By using antibiotics only when necessary, we can all protect their effectiveness for the times your pet really needs them.