

Help us fight antibiotic resistance

Antibiotic resistance is a growing problem for both animal and human health. When antibiotics are overused, they can become less effective in the future.

Our team is committed to prescribing them responsibly. We appreciate your support in helping keep these vital medicines working.

